Strike up the community band

Local musicians plan to take it to the street on Mollycoddett Day -- can a gazebo on the common be far behind?

By WENDY HANSCOM

Their lips are sore, they don't always remember the fingering or reach the high notes, and sometimes the sharps fall flat, but the Bethel-area Community Band is marching ahead.

The band has been meeting since early May. A dozen musicians were at last Thursday's practice, and others drop in on the jam sessions occasionally.

"That first meeting was like 'aaaaaargh are we really going to be able to do this', but it's coming along," said baritone horn player Rhonda Baker of Newry. "We were all a little apprehensive about picking up our instruments after they'd been collecting dust for years. But we played the first song the first night and everyone was amazed -- it sounded like music."

Band members come from all walks of life -- secretaries, a student, moms, a restaurant owner, a mill worker, a businesswoman -- but they all seem to share a love of performing.

"My trombone was collecting dust," said Ellen Whitney of Bethel. "I've always been involved with music and would like to continue to be, but didn't have the opportunity. I think it's good for the community to have something like this."

Drummer Ron Gilbert of West Bethel said he too just wanted to get back in a band.

"I just thought it would be fun to do it again," Gilbert said. "Besides, no one else would want me. I don't have drums at home, so this is a good way to get back into it."

Fun and a chance to improve her musical skills was Gail Sysko's reason for signing on. Sysko is a piano player. She had been learning to play the xylophone at home, and now plays it in the community band.

LAURETTA VARO on sax

"I need a little practice," Sysko said. "I'm having fun. I've actually been playing some notes."

"When I get a little confidence, I'll play a little louder," she laughed, "and maybe the band director will hear me."

Band members also have some loftier goals in mind. They'd like to set a good example of how enjoyable playing in a band can be, hold lots of public performances and get more people to turn out.

"For some reason the music department (at SAD44) became uncool," said saxophonist Becky Cobb of Bryant Pond. "If people can see adults doing it sitting around the common, then maybe they'll think it's a good thing to get back."

Flutist Patty Noll of Bethel agreed. "We can set an example," she said. "Maybe it will help the schools get music programs back."

Saxophonist Loretta Varo of West Bethel wants to spend her summer Friday evenings making music.

"I want a gazebo on the common and Friday night concerts," Varo said. "That's what they did in my home town. People would turn out even if it was raining. They'd just sit in their cars with the windows down and toot their horns after each number."

But for now the band is focusing on its first public appearance -- at Mollycoddett Day.

For that first outing they'll ride on a float instead of attempting marching while they play. Band members will also be part of the afternoon entertainment.

But while enthusiasm is high, the band could use some more members. The band is a bit heavy on lower brass instruments and needs some woodwinds, especially clarinets, and higher brass instruments like trumpets.

"I'd like to see the group grow into a balanced band," said volunteer director Jonathan Smith of Bethel. "I'd like to see it become the community's band, not so much performance based, but everyone playing along and enjoying what they're doing -- and some performance too. There's a lot of potential here."

Rehearsals at Gould Academy are held twice a week, Monday and Thursday, and begin at 6:45 p.m.

"We only rehearse for an hour or an hour-and-a-half," said Lainey Cross of Bethel. "It's not a huge commitment."

Smith said he encourages anyone interested to drop by with their instrument even if it's only for one evening of practice.

Most band members said they don't make it to every practice.

"I think a lot of people are thinking that if they're not there every

The Irish Newryites are here

By ELLEN GREEKE

On Saturday evening a dozen high school-aged students from Newry, Northern Ireland, accompanied by their four adult chaperones, arrived in Newry, Maine as part of an exchange program that began in earnest last summer when 12 area students travelled to Northern Ireland for two weeks.

The current exchange program was conceived from an idea in 1992 between Steve Wight of Newry and Pat Dunbar, one of the Irish chaperones. Dunbar, along with chaperone Pat Quinn, had brought 12 students to the area for hiking in the Mahoosuc Range and canoeing. The two men have been involved in organizing activities between the two schools in Newry where they teach. Dunbar teaches math and a course in outdoor studies at St. Paul's, a Catholic high school, and Quinn teaches physical education and history 30 miles to the north at Dromore High School in Lisburn on the outskirts of Newry, in a public or state school as they are called in Ireland.

In Northern Ireland the education system is divided into four Library Boards, with each board having its own environmental center. Dunbar said he incorporates lessons in his outdoor studies classes which can be extended at one of the environmental centers. Dunbar, who organized the trip, is also the director of a canoe club back home.

Quinn has 25 years of expeditioning experience in Europe, the U.S., and even Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia.

This is the sixth year that the two schools have been participating in activities together. According to Quinn, if it were not for these types of programs, the students from the two schools would probably not have contact with each other.

Their combined activities also provide expanded experiences in Education for Mutual Understanding (E.M.U.), a curriculum mandated by the government of Northern Ireland. There has been a re-education program for all teachers in the past six years as schools in Northern Ireland include E.M.U. in the curriculum.

Both schools are represented by the students and chaperones involved in this year's exchange. Joining Dunbar from St. Paul's are Sophia Connolly, a physical education teacher, and Karina Traynor who teaches science. Quinn is joined by David Nicol, a 17-year-old student at Lisburn College. Nicol is also a senior leader in a youth group at the state school where Quinn teaches.

Although acts of political violence have occurred close to their homes (On July 18 two protestant extremists burst into a neighborhood pub in a Catholic town near Newry, spraying the bar with auto-

Upton No trial on threatening charges

By WENDY HANSCOM

An Upton couple accused of threatening to kill town officials in a dispute over town road jobs, will probably not have to face a trial.

The case will be filed in Oxford County Superior Court with no trial or penalties pending, but with "no-contact" stipulations, according to the Oxford County district attorney's office. The Notice of Filing is still awaiting the signature of the defendants and the state's attorney, the D.A.'s office said.

Greenwood New valuations go out next week

By WENDY HANSCOM

Most Greenwood taxpayers should get a letter next week with their new valuation figure.

The notices shouldn't contain too many surprises, according to assessor John O'Donnell of O'Donnell Associations of Auburn.

The firm recently completed a revaluation of the town. Greenwood officials said the revaluation was necessary because the town's records -- turned in by former tax collector Herb Dunham last summer -- were incomplete and out-of-date.

"We want the people to realize why the town is doing the revaluation," O'Donnell said. "The popular misconception is that its done to raise more money, and that's not true. Money is raised at Town Meetings. The reason revaluation is done is to make sure the distribution is fair and based on fair valuation of each property."

"In Greenwood's case, they needed a record keeping system that the public had access to," he said. "The numbers they were working with were not terribly unfair the way they were. In our experience, towns usually wait too long to do the revaluation and there's a huge shift. But in Greenwood's case the numbers are not far off. They just didn't have any record keeping system that the public could have reasonable access to. If the tax assessors can explain the process to the taxpayers, it goes a long way in developing confidence in the system -- that they're being treated fairly."

Mechanic Street work on hold

While town seeks money for additional improvements

By MICHAEL DANIELS

With the Bethel Station project moving steadily along (see box), town officials are now looking for ways to upgrade the infrastructure improvements that had previously been planned for Mechanic Street.

The improvements -- to both Mechanic and Summer streets -- were to be the final stage of the town's $2.7 million, four-year-long, Inflow and Infiltration Removal Project.

The two streets had not been included in the original I&I project plan, but when Phase Three of the project was completed last year, town officials had an additional $190,000 in state and federal grant money left over.

The funding sources agreed to allow the town use of the remaining money to expand the original scope of the project, and work on Mechanic and Summer street was planned to begin early this summer.

But with Mechanic Street now projected as a main pedestrian connector between Bethel Village and the massive Bethel Station project, town officials have been looking for ways to upgrade the proposed improvements.

The initial plan for Mechanic Street included replacing the sewer and storm drains, rebuilding the road and putting a sidewalk in on one side of the road.

But town officials would now like to put sidewalks on both sides of the street, and they are considering the possibility of replacing the 100-year-old, eight-inch water line, in order to provide for more fire (fighting) flow at the project.

The extra sidewalk would cost an estimated $14,000, according to Town Manager Madeleine Henley, who said she is confident the money can be included in one of the various grants the town hopes to use for financing infrastructure improvements associated with the project.

But Henley said it is unlikely that grant money could be used to finance new water lines -- in large part because the low rates charged by the Bethel Water District make it unlikely that any such grants would be awarded.

The water district is currently negotiating with the Bethel Station developers to finance the improvements, according to district supervisor Robert Saunders.

Trees trimmed, or lines buried?

Much of Mechanic Street is lined with a double row of large maple trees. The two rows run just outside the boundary of the 40-foot right of way claimed by the town.

Henley said it is not know yet if any of the trees will need to be cut down, but some branches are almost certainly going to need to be trimmed to allow the relocated utility lines to pass through.

She also said that because of the relatively short distance involved, she is looking into the possibility of running the lines underground.

Henley said she had no estimate on what running the lines underground would cost. "It's the ideal solution," she said, "but it certainly would be expensive."

Work on Mechanic and Summer streets is now expected to begin in August or September, the town manager said.

Second public hearing set on station project

The Bethel Planning Board has scheduled a public hearing on the Bethel Station Project for Tuesday, July 12 at 7 p.m. in the Telstar High School Auditorium.

The hearing is the second on the project, and may be the last opportunity for formal public input, according to Planning Board chairman Frank Vogt.

Following the public hearing, the board has 30 days to approve the site plan, approve it with conditions, or disapprove it.

The Planning Board is scheduled to discuss the Bethel Station project at a special meeting on Wednesday, July 6. That meeting, which is also open to the public, will be held in the Town Office meeting room beginning at 7 p.m.

STAKED OUT BUT STILL—Ribbons of surveyor's tape along Mechanic Street delineate the 40-foot right of way claimed by the town. Storm and sewer drain work on Mechanic and Summer streets was initially planned to begin early this summer, but the project has been delayed as town officials try to find additional funds to expand the project to include sidewalks on both sides of the road (only one side was originally planned) and possibly replacement of the water lines on Mechanic Street. The work is now expected to begin in August or September, according to Town Manager Madeleine Henley.

Concord Pond roadwork coming soon

WOODSTOCK--Repairs to the Concord Pond this summer will take the town's road crew about two weeks to complete. Several culverts need replacing and the road will be ditched.

At Town Meeting time, Woodstock voters turned down a proposal from the Concord Pond Campers Association to pave a half-mile section of the road each year until the entire road is done. Voters said the paving was too expensive for a road not maintained for winter use.

New vests for sheriff's deputies

PARIS--The Oxford County Sheriff's Department will get five new bulletproof vests. The vests cost $425 each. They are known as "second chance" vests or "concealable soft body armor." They replace four used vests that are past their five-year life span. Oxford County Sheriff Lloyd "Skip" Herrick said department policy requires that deputies wear the vests while in uniform.

Oxford County Commissioners also approved the purchase of a new air conditioner for the Oxford County Jail. The unit will go in the jail's multi-purpose room used by staff and inmates. Metal bars will be fitted around the outside of the air conditioner to prevent inmates from escaping if the unit is pulled out of the wall.

The commissioner turned down Herrick's request last week for reimbursement for two sport coats, shirts and pants he purchased. Herrick said the reimbursement was justified because the clothes are needed as part of his job. The bill totalled $221. Commissioners do allot money for plain clothes to county detective, Capt. James Miclon, because he works undercover. The sheriff is issued a uniform. "I don't agree with the commissioner's position," Herrick said, "but I'm not going to make a big deal over it."

N.H. worries about rabies threat

NEW HAMPSHIRE--State health officials in New Hampshire are reporting that rabies cases are up 300 percent for the first six months of 1994, compared to the first six months of last year. The New Hampshire Department of Health and Human Services is testing 10 to 15 animals a day for the disease. Rabies has been reported in 54 New Hampshire towns and found as far north as Laconia.

Maine has yet to confirm any cases of the two rabies strains currently sweeping New England, according to a state wildlife official. Foxes are bringing the disease into New Hampshire from Vermont and Canada, and raccoons are bringing in rabies from the south. Maine wildlife officials say the disease is probably already in the state's fox and raccoon population. "At some time in the future we anticipate raccoons and other fur bearers will begin to carry it in greater numbers," said wildlife biologist Henry Hilton. "Even though we've had no official confirmation of the disease, we're still cautioning people to be careful with wild animals."

Deputies will get help looking for pot

PARIS--Oxford County Sheriff's Office deputies will help U.S. Forest Service employees look for marijuana patches this summer in the White Mountain National Forest.

Oxford County Commissioners signed a contract to allow deputies to search for plants in the national forest. The sheriff's department has been hired the past few summers to regularly patrol the forest which covers parts of Gilead, Albany, Stoneham, Batchelder's Grant and Mason Township. The marijuana-scouting contract has a spending limit of $5,000 for man-hours and helicopter use. This is the first time the two departments have teamed up to search for marijuana.

... but not from the air

PARIS--The Army National Guard may not look for pot this summer. The Guard won't search for marijuana unless the federal government releases some funds. Last year the Maine Drug Enforcement agents found 12,079 plants in Maine, half were found by using helicopters. Agents say the flights are the best way to search for marijuana.

But some property owners feel the flights are invasive and filed a lawsuit in U.S. District Court last November.

Named as defendants are the Oxford County Sheriff's Dept. Maine State Police, Maine Drug Enforcement Agency, Maine Commissioner of Public Safety and the Maine Army National Guard. The plaintiffs want to stop air surveillance over their properties and are being represented by a Portland law firm. The defendants will be represented by the U.S. Attorney's Office, the Maine Attorney General's Office and a Portland law firm. The case has been ordered ready for trial by Oct. 3, according to a U.S. district court clerk.

Maine growth rate slowing

WASHINGTON, D.C.--Maine's population growth rate in the early 1990s was less than half that of the 1980s, according to U.S. Census Department figures.

Oxford County had one of the lowest growth rates in the state. Census figures show Oxford County had 52,602 residents in 1990 and 52,612 residents in 1992, for a increase of .02 percent.

Maine grew by about 10,000 residents a year in the 80s, but during the early 90s, the state averaged an annual increase of 3,742 people.

Moose ends up in car after collision

RANGELY--Efforts to save a moose trapped in a car as the result of an accident earlier this week were in vain. After crashing through the windshield of a 1970 Chevy Caprice, the moose then became stuck between the roof of the car and the seats. Rescue crews used the Jaws of Life to free the trapped animal. As a result of the injuries, however, the moose was paralyzed below the hips and had to be destroyed. The driver of the car was able to get out of the vehicle following the collision and was not hurt.

Voters turn down fire truck purchase

HEBRON--For the second year in a row, Hebron residents voted to approve the purchase of a new fire truck at the annual town meeting only to rescind the decision for the second time at a special town meeting. Volunteer firefighters, disappointed with the most recent vote, threatened to turn in their equipment. A meeting has been scheduled by the Hebron Volunteer Fire Department Deputy Chief for July 10 to discuss the issue further.

From the Bethel Police log:

'Stay away from my woman'

On Tuesday, a Bethel Park Apartments resident reported that when he arrived home on Sunday, he found a small note on his door saying: "Stay away from my woman or else." Complainant stated that a man was seen putting the note on his door. When and if the man is located, he is to be advised that the complaint was reported.

Also on Tuesday, a Bryant Pond man reported that a juvenile and a male subject had kicked his vehicle, and the male subject had also kicked out the driver's side door window while the complainant was sitting in the driver's seat. The amount of damage was set at $933.64. Paperwork on the juvenile will be sent to juvenile intake.

The department also received a request from a county officer to be on the lookout for 4 male subjects, in a late model vehicle, possibly involved in several counts of criminal mischief. No contact with either the subjects or vehicle was reported.

A Paradise Road resident requested that the Police Department return her son if he was seen in town. Officer spotted the youth and gave him a ride home.

On Wednesday, a disabled vehicle was reported at the Big Apple. Two permits were also issued that day for local residents to have vehicles inspected out of town.

A Flat Road resident reported that his custom "cow" mailbox had been crushed. Replacement cost of the box was listed at $45.00.

During a routine security check Wednesday, a Bethel Police officer discovered the rear overhead door at Brook's Bros. open. The store manager came to the scene, secured the door, and reported nothing missing.

IRISH VISITORS--In the first of two weeks of planned activities, students and their chaperones from Newry, Northern Ireland spent Sunday afternoon with their host families at Jim and Gail Sysko's in Newry for a cookout, swimming, and a time to relax, after arriving in Newry, Maine at 7 p.m. Saturday evening. matic weapon fire -- killing six and wounding five) the Newry visitors say the violence does not interfere with their lives.

Highly populated areas like Belfast see more violence. The chaperones say they feel "far removed from all of it in Newry."

"We just get on with our daily life," said Traynor.

All activities planned this week will include both the Irish students and their counterparts from their Maine host families. On Monday, the group will tour Bethel and end the day with supper at Bill and Sylvia Wight's in Newry. On Tuesday and Wednesday, the group will be hiking and canoeing in Errol, N.H. On Thursday, they will travel to Augusta, where Rep. Al Barth will lead them on a tour of the capital. When they return that evening, the Bethel Alliance Church will host a potluck supper for the group. On Friday, a trip to Grafton Notch is planned with a visit to Step Falls, as well as a program that will include forestry and farming in the area. The exchange students will round out their first week next Saturday as they spend the day with their host families.

The second week of activities begins with a three-day trip to the coast that will feature a clam bake, a ride on a lobster boat, and a shopping trip to L.L. Bean. On Wednesday, the group will relax with a cookout and swimming that will include their host families. The final activity planned for the group on Thursday and Friday is a trip to Boston. They will "camp out" in Newtonville in the Central Congregational Church, where their youth group will spend time with the Irish students. The group will leave for home on Saturday, July 9.

On the way to Boston Saturday, youth exchange organizer Steve Wight stopped in Portsmouth, N.H. to attend the District Rotary Conference. The Rotary was discussing a program they sponsor called "Friends Forever" which brings Catholic and Protestant Northern Irish youth to the U.S. But, Wight added, the Newry exchange works both ways. Co-organizer Melinda Remington added that the experience broadens the horizons of both the U.S. and Irish students. She also said that many of the U.S. participants will have the opportunity to visit places locally that they may never have been to previously, as well as participate in new opportunities.

year-round addresses, O'Donnell said, and he's particularly concerned that out-of-state taxpayer's notices will get sent to their home, while some of those taxpayers may be at their second home in Greenwood for the summer. After July 6, those taxpayers can call the Town Office (875-2773) or O'Donnell (782-6532) to get their revaluation figure.

Anyone who is happy with or has questions about his assessment can schedule an appointment with O'Donnell's firm on July 15 and 16 by calling the town. The hearings will be scheduled for 15 minutes.

"Taxpayers need to ask themselves if it seems like a reasonable evaluation," O'Donnell said. "We don't consider that our job is done until they've had a chance to tell us how they feel. They know the most about their properties. While we're listening, we'll also try to explain the process."

O'Donnell said adjustments may be made to the revaluations if the assessors feel the taxpayer has a valid concern.

School lunch

By ELLEN GREEKE

The SAD44 School Board voted Monday night to raise the prices of hot lunches. Elementary lunch will increase from $1 to $1.25. The secondary increase will be from $1.50 to $1.70. Breakfast prices will remain the same, as will the cost of a reduced price for the students who qualify.

Chairman Margaret Hand said that it has been four years since the prices were raised at the elementary level. Secondary prices were raised in FY93. District business manager Bruce Powell, who introduced the new increases, said that there are many changes at the state level regarding hot lunch programs, including the fat and caloric content of the meals.

An estimated $7,000 will be generated by the increase. This will help to offset a reduction in the district subsidy to the Food Service Program. Those cuts include $10,000 for FY94, and $5,000 for FY95. The new prices still fall below the state maximum of $1.50 for elementary.

Board member Merton Brodeur stated he was in favor of the increase saying, "Lunch programs should be funded by the users."

Board member Merton Brown stated he was in favor of the increase saying, "Lunch programs should be funded by the users."

Other business

In other business Monday evening, board member Amy Chapman reported that the Education Committee had met and brainstormed reasons why Telstar students are choosing to attend Gould Academy. They include: curriculum offerings, public education as ability based vs. private education as effort based, and negative middle school experiences. The committee plans to review their own committee goals, as well as review the teacher evaluation process, and the feasibility of heterogeneous grouping at all levels.

Andover board member Brad Thibodeau reported that the Ad Hoc Committee on 6th grade placement and Middle School met last week. The committee has set a goal to educate themselves on mid-level education. Several members of the committee will attend a conference in Orono focusing on mid-level education.

NOVA Superintendent Dewaine Craig did a presentation on NOVA 2000. Craig highlighted the group's progress in the past two years. One of the most important decisions the group had to make was whether to remain a region based program, or become a center. In the region based program, all the supporting districts take an active role in governing the program. In a center, the school where the center is located, or attached, becomes the governing board.

Craig went on to describe the guidance curriculum that NOVA has developed which includes grades K-12. It is the only NOVA in the state to have such a curriculum. Craig said that NOVA Guidance Director Dan Hart has weekly visits to both middle and high schools in this region, as well as visitations to Peru Elementary School and St. Anthanasius and St. John's School in Rumford.

AES multi-age classes out, new TMS principal in

By WENDY HANSCOM

Andover Elementary School will not get a principal as previously planned, but will instead abandon the school's multi-age classrooms program and return to a teacher per grade level for kindergarten through sixth-grade.

The SAD44 School Board has approved hiring a grade four teacher and making kindergarten teacher Barbara Sabin lead teacher.

Sabin will take on many of the duties usually assigned to a principal. She will be overseen by elementary supervisor and Crescent Park School principal David Murphy.

"The configuration is a recommendation that I share with the entire staff," Murphy said, "and with nearly 50 representatives of the community who attended a recent meeting at the school to discuss the issue."

"The highest concern for everyone has been what appears to be a lack of a sufficient number of staff to offer a teacher-per-grade-level program," he said, "and although this past year's experiment with multi-grade education did receive some support from parents, it is the opinion of many concerned that the plan was an ill-conceived and poorly supported one."

Multi-age classrooms were talked about for AES under the "Andover 2000" plan for the 1992-93 school year. The plan was abandoned before it was implemented due to complaints from several parents.

Due to continuing budget cutbacks, in 1993-94 school year, the school went to multi-age classrooms and one teaching position was eliminated. But while going along with the plan this time, the school's PTA and other AES supporters told the School Board they wanted to return to a teacher-per-grade-level system.

Middle school principal hired

The School Board also recently hired Richard A. Blackman as Telstar Middle School principal.

Blackman is currently principal of Mountain Valley High School in Rumford. SAD44 will pay Blackman $42,568.

TMS principal Bruce Bell is transferring to Woodstock Elementary School where he will serve as principal. Bell's salary is $42,568.

By COLISTA MORGAN

Daisies are now golden eyed, holding the fullness of summer; the bright look that is the basic quality of June.

There are odors of growing things, the smell of flower boxes, spicy geraniums and the fragrance of roses. There are days when clouds explode in the endless blue sky, sun, rain and warm earth, June studded with glory, summer's sweet beginning, so the calendar tells us.

Birds sing at dawn waking summer sleepheads. A warbler yellow-green flashes by. The country is magic or monotony, depending on the person.

"Some folks like city pavements/ The hurrying to and fro/ But give me the country lanes/ Where wild sweet flowers grow." (Ethel B. Caulfield)

I went to explore near the pond. I first saw a sandpiper strutting on skinny legs like a creature on stilts, but remarkably graceful on foot or on wing.

Our first public supper of the season will be held Thursday, June 23 at the East Stoneham Church vestry. Thereafter it will be every other week with beans, br. bread, punch, chocolate, chop suey, coffee, cun- chers, etc. on the menu. Sound good? I think so.

Loretta Andrews has been discharged from the hospital and is recovering from recent surgery on her leg. She is at present at the home of her son and wife in New Hampshire.

Fran Hamilton is going to Cambridge, Mass. on Saturday, June 25 to attend a piano recital that her grandson is taking part in. He is 11 years old.

Dennis Farnsworth and son have been helping Albert Nelson on his mowing of lawns, etc. Charles Lawrence has employment at Camp Susan Curtis for the summer. De Barker also works there. Jim Shugars is back to work driving truck. Troy and Travis Fox are working for the Fox Bros. this summer. They are doing work at Horse-shoe Pond. Carroll Buck is now working for Viking Motors.

This last Sunday the men who attended church here in Stoneham had a pleasant surprise as after services they were all treated to a piece of apple pie by Margery Kimball in honor of Father's Day. What a nice thing to do.

Molly and Matthew Nelson have been attending Frontier Camp at Lovell this week. The Bennett Transportation bus picks up a group at the Lovell Village Library each morning.

Gladys Kilgore had the misfortune to bruise a couple of ribs this week. Hopefully the pain will subside soon, Gladys.

Beano will be held at the Rescue Barn here on June 28 at 7:30 p.m. This always draws a good crowd and is for a worthy cause.

Just before newswriting time this week I got involved in reading an old diary of mine dated 1940, 41, 42 and 43. How busy we were those days on the farm with hoeing beans, caring for newborn pigs, haying, picking blueberries in the upper pas-

Another beautiful day, kind of windy, but just right temperature. It's been a real windy spring and summer so far. I'm not complaining as winter will be here soon.

My granddaughter, Sarah Hart, and I went to Lewiston on Tuesday afternoon. We did a little shopping and had lunch at Arby's. Was disappointed in the food and didn't eat it all.

Ellsworth Hathaway and Harry Hutchinson have been putting in some early hours at Will's Mill this week. Many days they're heading out at 5:30 a.m.

The horses are back in the field across from my house. There are five of them and they are a nice addition to the scenery.

Sarah Hart has passed her driver's permit test and is anxious to get experience driving.

Perfect attendance at Woodstock Elementary School for the students who live in South Woodstock are: Heather Demarest, Jennie Cox, Taneli Koskela, Casey Ryerson, Crystal Cash, Paul Cox, Alishia Miclon, Matthew Moore and Melanie Ryerson. I hope I didn't miss anyone. I do not know some of the names but try to mention any I recognize. Congratulations for not missing any days. Have a nice summer.

I was sorry to hear of the death of one of our South Woodstock residents, Dave Dunham. Sympathy goes out to his wife, Ann and his children.

My apologies for not getting news in last week. Marcia slipped a disk in the neck/shoulder area and had to stay quiet for a few days. This morning anyway gets quite flustered when anything happens to her chicks or if they are grown up. It didn't that she injured it helping me to up the living room rug. "No offense Mum," she said, "but how come get injured and you who were lifting and didn't even get twinge?" By LORRAINE MILLS
The Greenwood Historical Society building will be open every Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m., July through August.
The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary would like to extend an invitation to anyone who may be interested in the Auxiliary to attend one of the regular meetings held on the fourth Monday of every month at 6:30 p.m. at the fire station. You do not have to have a family member on the Fire Department to join the Auxiliary.
Olive Risko, Mary Lyon, Vera Cross, Kathleen McAllister, Zylpha Emmons and Wilda Wallace from the Jackson-Silver Unit of the American Legion all attended the A.L. Convention last weekend, June 16 to 19 in Waterville. They were very grateful for air-conditioned rooms and Olive's car. They said they got by without melting.
My apologies for not getting the news in last week. Marcia had slipped a disk in the neck and shoulder area and had to stay very quiet for a few days. This mother anyway gets quite flustered when anything happens to her chicks even if they are grown up. It didn't help that she injured it helping me take up the living room rug. "No offense, Mum," she said, "but how come I get injured and you who were also lifting and didn't even get a twinge?" I figured probably because I have to lift water jugs but also because I don't try to lift beyond my strength. Sometimes younger people do.
Zylpha Emmons, Olive Risko, Vera Cross and Kathleen McAllister attended the County council meeting in Dixfield on Tuesday, June 21.
Rick Roy had a problem with chest pains that hot week and had to be taken to Stephen's Memorial Hospital on Friday, June 14. He was hoping to get out in time to see Ricky who was due to be in Bangor early in the week, a stopover while the plane returned. Rick and Ann had not seen him for two and one half years.
Mr. and Mrs. Al Lake, Lorraine Mills and Marcia Smith were among those from Locke Mills who attended the wedding of Debbie Hertell and Bill Goff on Monday evening, June 20 at Praise Assembly of God in Rumford Center with Rev.

The Greenwood Historical Society building will be open every Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m., July through August.

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary would like to extend an invitation to anyone who may be interested in the Auxiliary to attend one of the regular meetings held on the fourth Monday of every month at 6:30 p.m. at the fire station. You do not have to have a family member on the Fire Department to join the Auxiliary.

Olive Risko, Mary Lyon, Vera Cross, Kathleen McAllister, Zylpha Emmons and Wilda Wallace from the Jackson-Silver Unit of the American Legion all attended the A.L. Convention last weekend, June 16 to 19 in Waterville. They were very grateful for air-conditioned rooms and Olive's car. They said they got by without melting.

My apologies for not getting the news in last week. Marcia had slipped a disk in the neck and shoulder area and had to stay very quiet for a few days. This mother anyway gets quite flustered when anything happens to her chicks even if they are grown up. It didn't help that she injured it helping me take up the living room rug. "No offense, Mum," she said, "but how come I get injured and you who were also lifting and didn't even get a twinge?" I figured probably because I have to lift water jugs but also because I don't try to lift beyond my strength. Sometimes younger people do.

Zylpha Emmons, Olive Risko, Vera Cross and Kathleen McAllister attended the County council meeting in Dixfield on Tuesday, June 21.

Rick Roy had a problem with chest pains that hot week and had to be taken to Stephen's Memorial Hospital on Friday, June 14. He was hoping to get out in time to see Ricky who was due to be in Bangor early in the week, a stopover while the plane returned. Rick and Ann had not seen him for two and one half years.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Lake, Lorraine Mills and Marcia Smith were among those from Locke Mills who attended the wedding of Debbie Hertell and Bill Goff on Monday evening, June 20 at Praise Assembly of God in Rumford Center with Rev.

Robert Rainville officiating. The bride was attended by friend and co-worker Debbie Brown. Peter Darling, South Portland, long time friend of the groom, served as best man. Kirsten Hertell-Arsenault, daughter of the bride and Jaime Goff, daughter of the groom, were flower girls and Corey Goff, son of the groom, was the ring bearer. Following the ceremony a reception was held downstairs in the church after which the bride and groom left for a honeymoon at an undisclosed destination. All their friends and family wish the couple a long life together filled with love and peace.

Nellie Swan and Vera Cross set out plants at Riverside Cemetery and Nellie had time to stay for lunch with Vera. It is hard for them to have time together as Nellie works part-time.

Marcia Smith, Presque Isle, was due to return home on Saturday, June 25 after spending three weeks with her mother, Lorraine Mills. While here she saw her aunt Mary Mills of Norway and her aunt Carolyn Colby of West Greenwood. Carolyn also visited at Lorraine's and Marcia's one evening. Due to car trouble and back trouble the planned visit with her brother in Vermont did not materialize, yet she got to talk with him on the phone. He plans to come to Maine the week of July 4th but Marcia had to get back home before he gets here. She will be returning as far as Bridgewater with Dot and Roger Chopping of Dixfield. The Chopping's have bought some land and a camp in Bridgewater which is only 18 miles from Presque Isle and plan to build a home there as soon as their house in Dixfield is sold. Marcia's husband, Jon, and her friend Candie Sampson will meet her in Bridgewater to return her to Presque Isle. It reminds one of a relay race as Gerry Shimamura and her mother are getting her to Dixfield at 5:30 a.m. yet, in spite of her mother's allergy to mornings.

No. Woodstock

By SHANE BILLINGS

Summer is here and school is finally out. I have a lot of homework to do over the summer, especially books to read. This past school year was a good one, but I was ready for vacation and it's nice to be able to sleep as late as I like.
My cousin Mandy McInnis and I ate dinner at the Bethel Inn last Friday. We had a nice time.

I would like to make a correction concerning last week's column. It should have read that Mandy enjoyed a three-day cruise on a schooner, but her sister Michelle's name was printed instead. Sorry about the error.

Bridget Billings is playing for the town of Woodstock's softball team. On Monday they won their first game of the season.

Sue Silver took Joelle and Errol, along with Bridget Billings, to the Gray Animal Farm one day last week. I am sure they had a good time. Bridget and Joelle love all animals and probably took hours to watch each individual creature.

One night last week my mother, my sister, and I called on Sterling and Irene Mills. Betsey Cummings is up from South Portland with her children Carly and Ross, and Jeff Mills is home from Arizona with his daughter Olivia. We all had a nice time talking and watching Jeff's videos from Arizona.

Now that summer is finally here, it gives those of us who are off from school and work a chance to think about things that have taken place, and to wonder about the things that have yet to occur. No one should pass up this chance for reflection and dreaming, whether it be in the form of a conversation with a parent, a day spent with a friend, or silent contemplation.

Mr. and Mrs. Fernand Corriveau and family, Fred, Gina and Michael Corriveau, Belinda Corriveau and Joshee and Breana Glover, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Morin, their two children and his mother, and Jeremy Morin and friend all journeyed to Roxbury Pond on Fathers' Day weekend where they picnicked, swam and boated for most of the day. They were joined by Ronald and Belissa Morin and two children of Andover. A nice time was had by all, but unfortunately even with sun screens, most sported sunburns. But, I'm told it was worth the trip with the sandy beaches and all.

Mrs. Josie Greenwood entertained the Church of the Nazarene at a bible study at her home here last Thursday evening. Last weekend her daughter and family entertained the group at her home in Shelburne, N.H. with a poolside picnic and barbecue festival. About 35 people attended. Horseshoes and other games were played.

Edward and Peggy Rice entertained their children at a Fathers' Day barbecue here.

Many families packed coolers and spend the sizzling days at the "Second Hole" in Wild River. Children kept cool and so did the parents.

As for my husband and I we holed up in the house with all the fans going, drank gallons of ice tea, and feasted on cold salads and deviled eggs and ice cold fruits. Even then it was an effort to breathe, and at the slightest movement, perspired. Thank God it cooled down for Fathers' Day.

Many thanks go to John Hathaway of Bryant Pond who came out on a day like that to do a bit of appraising for us.

"They cut down the old pine tree/And they hauled it away..." Sincere sympathy to the family of Joan Coolidge.

On Saturday Kassi and Bernie Gatchell and Kaity came from Portland. Brandon and Tara Salway came from Old Orchard Beach to celebrate Tara's, Norma's and David's birthdays and Fathers' Day. An indoor picnic topped off with cake and ice cream was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Eva Barker of Norway with friends from Camden and Florida were callers here on Tuesday.

Tuesday afternoon I went to Otisfield. That evening we attended the sixth grade graduation exercises from the Otisfield Community School. Grandson Jonathan Bean received several awards-among them high honors, perfect attendance for the year, computer whiz kid, top speller, and music. Keep up the good work, Jon.

Kaity Gatchell is spending the weekend here while her parents are on a camping trip.

Mrs. Judy Wentzell Coleman and daughters, Sarah and Irene of Portland spent the day Thursday with Mrs. Millie Wentzell and family.

Mrs. Ethel Herr has returned to her summer cottage here.

Mrs. Eula Hardy of Bandy, Va. with her daughter, Darci of Oxford visited Mrs. Phyllis Bancroft Tuesday. They used to work together in the shoe shop.

Mr. Alma Millett and Mrs. Agnes Lahli of Waterford visited their brother, Bill Bancroft and Phyllis one day last week.

If you can see the handwriting on the wall, you probably have children with crayons.

High Street

West Paris

By RUSSELL YATES

Howdy folks. This is time for more news of our doings here on High Street. Yesterday was rather nice, so I worked outside instead of working on my news.

One day last week we had to go down street so that I could get the new battery that I was compelled to buy to fit my tractor. In the afternoon, I was trying to outwit a woodchuck, and in the process, I tripped and fell, breaking my glasses frame, not the lenses, and I got a bad cut on my nose and a slit on my forehead. Guess I should have stayed in bed.

Wednesday, we found a new frame for my glasses at Porter's and felt very lucky to find a frame that would fit these old lenses.

We went to Auburn in the afternoon for errands and to visit sister Viva.

Peggy got a new bathrobe for Viva at Sears.

Before leaving for the West Paris Grange where we attended the election of officers, I had finally outwitted the woodchuck and had him in my trap, so I ended his life.

Friday was another super hot day. Peggy went to do her card work and I went out to work in the garden, but it didn't last long. When it gets too hot and is so humid, I have to get out of the hot sun. I did find a shady area and washed up the trays and containers that I had used in my coldframe.

When checking my garden on Saturday morning, I found my first potato bug. I haven't planted any potatoes for several years, until this year, and it makes me wonder where they come from. That was the first potato bug and I hope it is the last one this year.

There will be a dance at West Paris Grange Hall on July 2 with Richard Felt's Orchestra furnishing the music. They play the old-time songs and the music is great for dancing.

Don't forget the musical supper, to be hosted by Franklin Grange, at the American Legion Hall in Locke Mills on July 19 starting at 5:30 p.m. A $5 ticket ($2.50 for children under 12) entitles you to a good supper followed by a variety show and dancing. Richard Felt's Orchestra will be furnishing the dancing music.

NOTES FROM

Telstar Guidance

June 13 was the official "step-up day" for SAD44. At Telstar Middle School guidance counselor Sally Hannon and staff had been preparing for the day for several months. Students at Crescent Park, Andover Elementary and Woodstock have had an opportunity to talk with their teachers and Mrs. Hannon about their anxieties and concerns related to their transition to Telstar Middle School.

Parents also had an opportunity to find out more about the middle school in the evening. The goal of the guidance sponsored program was to make the parents of incoming students more familiar with programs, staff and policies.

Mrs. Hannon opened the program with an introduction of two new programs that staff and parents are trying to promote for the middle school. The first, a newsletter with articles and works of students and staff. The end of the year issue was sent to the parents of present students of Telstar in grades six, seven and eight. It is hoped that a monthly issue will be presented next year. The first issue of next year will include information about teams, contacting teachers, calendars, etc., and will be sent. The following issues will be "hand carried" home by the students.

The second program introduced was the beginning of a parent group at the middle school. Several parents had met and were seeking teacher and additional input about ways that the school could use the community members to enhance the educational process. Patti Parsons spoke about the initial meeting and welcomes parents attending to join in the positive direction for youngsters at the middle school. Sixth- and seventh-graders should have brought home an informational sheet on Thursday, June 16.

Following the brief introduction, parents counted off and formed "working" groups with staff members. Each group had 15 to 20 minutes to talk about "parental concerns" related to the Middle School. The groups then had an opportunity to have a spokesperson report. There were many common issues shared and an abundance of information exchanged. The discussion included the following topics:

Communication with the Middle School and teams.

Areas of the building that sixth-graders will be using.

Homework expectations for the incoming students.

Progress reports. Honors English offerings and the availability of French and Spanish.

When do sports begin and end ... Could we produce a calendar? Practice times and game times are needed.

Are the dances and activities age appropriate?

Can we get a copy of the Health curriculum?

What are some of the after-school programs and when do the busses run?

How does peer pressure fit in with this age group?

All of the teams will be having meetings next year. The grade-six team will be sending out letters near the end of August for a "before school starts" open house. The seventh and eighth grade teams will hold theirs after the school year begins.

All parents are encouraged to continue their participation in their youngsters' education as they travel through the middle school.

BOOKS • N • THINGS

Dear Friends,
Summer. That time of the year when kids have the time to read the books they want to, not just the school required books.
Here at BOOKS-N-THINGS we've got just the books kids are looking for to take with them to camp or just relax with on a rainy day.
We've got all the popular series that kids love, including GOOSEBUMPS, BABYSITTERS' CLUB, FEAR STREET, THOROUGHBREDS, BOXCAR CHILDREN, HARDY BOYS, NANCY DREW, BLACK STALLION, NIGHTMARE HALL, and FINAL FRIENDS.
And for younger readers we're well-stocked with BERENSTAIN BEARS, CLIFFORD, BABYSITTER'S LITTLE SISTER, and more.
Before the kids at your house get bored and cranky, bring them to BOOKS-N-THINGS, where kids' summer reading begins.

Public TV looks to the sea

Today more than 50 percent of the earth's population live within 50 miles of a major sea or ocean. "Seapower: A Global Journey," a new six-part series premiering Tuesday, July 5 at 9 p.m. on Maine Public Television, explores the relationship between people and the sea and takes viewers on dramatic sea journeys.

The series explores the interaction between people and the sea throughout history, from the copper trade during the Bronze Age 3,000 years ago, the role of ships in building the British Empire, the arduous journeys of European immigrants to the New World, to the complex American warship of the Persian Gulf War. The program takes viewers aboard trawlers, research vessels, tankers, submarines—even a pleasure cruise ship—and explores the ways in which modern seapower affects, and is determined by, issues of trade, politics, defense, resource extraction, research and transportation.

Episode one, Lifeblood, explores human interdependence with the oceans, journeying from an isolated Japanese island totally dependent on the ships that reach it to a Greek tanker "fueled" by U.S. trade brokers.

On July 12, episode two, Ruling the Waves, explores the post-World War II state of naval affairs, explaining where America's interests lie, why the Russian fleet is rotting in its harbor, and how smaller navies are beginning to play a larger role at sea.

Episode three, Trade Winds/Trade Wars, airing July 19, reveals how trade has affected communities around the world.

Passage to Paradise, episode four airing July 26, explores the role of the seas in the search for a better life.

On August 2, episode five, Who Owns the Oceans? highlights the struggle between the laws of man and the laws of nature, traveling to Norway's Lofoten Islands, where fishermen are fighting for their rights to diminishing fish stocks.

The series concludes August 9 with A Depth of Knowledge, travelling beneath the ocean's surface in Shinkai 6500, the world's deepest diving submersible, to discover subsea earthquakes.

Seapower: A Global Journey begins Tuesday, July 5 at 9 p.m. on the stations of Maine Public Television.

The Bethel Library

Over 100 children are busily reading Bethel Library books for the Summer Reading Program. It's wonderful to see so much enthusiasm on the part of preschool and CPS children, and it is great to have so many parents supporting and encouraging their children. It is not too late to get involved. The forms are available at the Library desk for all preschoolers and elementary children who would like to participate.

The Magic Talent Show was a great success. The performers were Ben Dohrmann, Anna Dohrmann, Billy Murphy, Mark Tanguay, Adam Tanguay, Marty Donovan, Finnian Donovan, Charley Raymond, Tommy Raymond, and Parker Hansen. A big thank you to all of these wonderful magicians who amazed the large audience with their magic tricks. The special event for children will be the Teddy Bear Picnic on Wednesday, July 6 from 11 a.m. to noon (raindate Thursday, July 7 from 11 a.m. to noon). This event is planned for preschoolers, but everyone is welcome. Children should bring their lunches and their Teddy bears. Cake and activities will be provided.

Thanks to the following for recent donations: Janet Willie, Beverly Cassara, Suzanne Taylor, Muncie Allen Post #81, Linda Gambel, Janie Vogt, Cherry Douglass, and Jack Nordahl. Donations of used books, audio tapes, or video tapes are always very welcome.

New books added to the collection this week: "Marriage Made in Woodstock" by Cathie Pelletier, "Voyager" by Diana Gabaldon, "Chamber" by John Grisham, "Daybreak" by Belva Plain, "The Piano" by Jane Campion, "Love Can Build a Bridge" by Naomi Judd, and "The Men and the Girls" by Joanna Trollope.

News from the The Bethel Library

Over 100 children are busily reading Bethel Library books for the Summer Reading Program. It is wonderful to see so much enthusiasm on the part of preschool and CPS children, and it is great to have so many parents supporting and encouraging their children. It is not too late to get involved. The forms are available at the Library desk for all preschoolers and elementary children who would like to participate.

The Magic Talent Show was a great success. The performers were Ben Dohrmann, Anna Dohrmann,
Billy Murphy, Mark Tanguay,
Adam Tanguay, Marty Donovan, Finnian Donovan, Charlie Raymond, Tommy Raymond, and Parker Hansen. A big thank you to all of these wonderful magicians, who amazed the large audience with their magic tricks. The next special event for children will be the Teddy Bear Picnic on Wednesday, July 6 from 11 a.m. to noon (raindate Thursday, July 7 from 11 a.m. to noon). This event is planned for preschoolers, but everyone is welcome. Children should bring their lunches and their Teddy bears.
Cake and activities will be provided.

Thanks to the following for recent donations: Janet Willie, Beverly Cassara, Suzanne Taylor, Mundt-
Allen Post #81, Linda Gamble, Janie Vogt, Cherry Douglass, and Jack Nordahl. Donations of used books, audio tapes, or video tapes are always very welcome.

New books added to the collection this week: "Marriage Made at Woodstock" by Cathie Pelletier;
"Voyager" by Diana Gabaldon;
"Chamber" by John Grisham;
"Daybreak" by Betsy Platter; "The Piano" by Jane Campion; "Love
Can Build a Bridge" by Naomi Judd; and "The Men and the Girls" been recently purchased, including

Bingham Grant will support tech college jobs network

The Maine Technical College System has been awarded a $100,000 private grant to develop a computer network that will link technical college alumni to Maine employers. The Maine Training and Employment Computer (TEC) Network will begin operation in 1995. It is made possible by a generous grant from The Betterment Fund, created by the will of William Bingham II of Bethel, solely for the benefit of the State of Maine.

The Maine TEC Network will serve as a statewide network between technical college technicians and employers for job openings and training opportunities. Participation in the network will be free of charge to businesses and technical college graduates. John Fitzsimmons, president of the Maine Technical College System, said the network will provide Maine employers with direct and immediate access to a regional or statewide pool of technical college-educated technicians, while providing a valuable employment information service to alumni.

"As a result of this grant, our current and future alumni, and Maine employers will have a unique resource available to them," Fitzsimmons said. "We believe the network will help reduce the length of time spent by companies searching for qualified employees, while at the same time assisting in the job search efforts of our alumni. We are delighted that we will be able to offer this service."

Graduates of the six technical colleges will be invited to join the network, which will list their name, address and technical college major and credential(s). Participating Maine employers will notify their local technical college of job openings, and the college will provide a list of qualified graduates. The company can then make direct contact with those graduates. The colleges will also utilize the network to notify alumni of training opportunities offered in their field, encouraging and enabling technicians to keep their skills up-to-date to enhance their career opportunities.

The $100,000 grant will be used for the computer program design and support equipment, data entry and processing, and recruitment and marketing efforts. Once the grant expires, the Maine Technical College System will maintain the network as part of its ongoing services to employers and graduates.

AMC offers trail stewardship program

An innovative program to help protect New England's Appalachian countryside and connect local communities, parks and nature centers to the Appalachian Trail has been recently announced by the Appalachian Mountain Club (AMC) and the Appalachian Trail Conference (ATC).

The organizations also announced that funds and technical assistance for community-based projects to support those goals were being made available, and invited grant applications from a variety of non-profit organizations, municipal boards, and schools interested in working on the project.

Both the AMC and ATC have long histories of advocacy for, and stewardship of, the 2,155-mile Appalachian Trail (AT) -- the world's longest marked footpath.

The program, known as the Appalachian Trail "CountrySide" Initiative, will provide financial and technical support for community-based efforts in three areas:

--making the Appalachian Trail accessible to and from communities, parks and nature centers;

--conservation of working and natural landscapes adjacent to, or visible from, the AT such as farms, forests, and other wild spaces;

--public education and outreach to make the AT more visible and relevant to school children, seniors, inner city residents, and rural residents in communities through which the trail passes.

Funded through a Challenge Cost-Share Grant from the National Park Service's Rivers, Trails, and Conservation Assistance Program, and administered by the AMC and ATC, the Initiative will provide financial and technical support for projects of local design. For 1994, the program will focus on the New England states. The trail enters New England in western Connecticut, turns north through the Berkshires of western Massachusetts and Ver-mont's Green Mountains, and then heads northeast across New Hampshire and Maine to its northern terminus atop Katahdin in Baxter State Park.

"The Appalachian Trail is an exceptional community resource," said AMC trails director Kevin T.
Knobloch. "Though many people think of it as separate and distinct from its surrounding countryside, it is really a unified ecosystem, and the millions of people who live in or near the Appalachian countryside of New England are part of it.
Through this program we hope to catalyze greater community involvement in protecting the natural beauty of the region, enhance appreciation of the trail itself, and make the trail and its environs more accessible to people who might not ordinarily enjoy its many benefits."

Examples of projects that could be supported by the Initiative include the development of a school curriculum that helps bring alive the cultural heritage and natural history of the AT countryside; the researching and writing of guidebooks or interpretive materials; the development of public programs and workshops about the trail's history, multiple uses, stewardship and volunteerism; conservation of open spaces, farmland or forest land surrounding the AT through purchase or land-use planning; construction of footpaths to connect local trails to the Appalachian Trail; and the acquisition of easements or rights-of-way from private landowners to improve accessibility to the AT.

"It is appropriate that this program is being announced just before the Second Annual National Trails Day on June 4," said David N. Startzell, the ATC's executive director. "The Appalachian Trail is perhaps the most legendary of the nation's hiking trails, yet the full potential of this great natural resource as a source of renewal and a focal point for land conservation has not been realized. We hope the Appalachian Trail "CountrySide" Initiative will engage a whole new constituency to work for the enhancement of the trail and its surroundings."

Guidelines for New England applicants for the Appalachian Trail "CountrySide" Initiative are available from the Appalachian Mountain Club, 5 Joy Street, Boston, MA 02108, or ATC Regional Office, One Lyle Common, Lyme, NH 03768-0312. The application deadline is July 15, 1994.

The Appalachian Mountain Club, with more than 60,000 members, promotes conservation while encouraging responsible recreation, based on the philosophy that successful long-term conservation depends upon firsthand experience of the natural environment. AMC staff and volunteers maintain and monitor more than 1,400 miles of trail in the northeast, including 350 miles of the Appalachian Trail.

The Appalachian Trail Conference is a private, nonprofit organization of more than 23,000 members dedicated to protecting and promoting the Appalachian Trail along its entire 2,155-mile length from Maine to Georgia. The ATC is also a federation for the 32 trail-maintaining organizations, including the AMC, that manage sections of the trail.

Training course can lower mortgage rate

First time homebuyers using the Maine State Housing Authority home purchase program may reduce their downpayment to 3 percent of the mortgage amount if they take a homebuyer training course, according to MSHA Director David Lakari.

"We're continually working to reduce the amount of cash borrowers need to qualify for a MSHA mortgage," Lakari said. "This represents another opportunity for Maine's first-time homebuyers to take advantage of our financing."

"On a typical $70,000 mortgage, the 3 percent option reduces the cash needed for a downpayment by $1,400, to about $2,100."

Lakari noted the lower downpayment is available at many lenders through two mortgage insurance companies in the new MSHA program announced at the beginning of June. The $60 million program provides mortgages at 6.25 percent for eligible first time homebuyers.

MSHA requires mortgage insurance on its home loans. The most common type of insurance used is through private firms such as the Mortgage Guarantee Insurance Corporation (MGIC), or GE Capital Mortgage Insurance.

The private firms generally require a 5 percent downpayment, which is significantly less than the 20 percent usually required for a non-insured conventional mortgage.

With MSHA's program, though, borrowers may further reduce the downpayment to three percent if they take either the agency's Homebuyer Training Program or other approved home buyer training, and obtain mortgage insurance through a firm offering the lower downpayment option.

The MSHA program is a 10-hour course targeted to first-time homebuyers.

LEARNING TEAMWORK--Rotary Leadership Conference students take part in a teamwork exercise.

Rotary Club notes:

The Fourth Annual Rotary Youth Leadership Awards (RYLA) Conference was held at Gould Academy this past weekend.

Over 70 students from northern Mass., southern Vt., N.H. and central/southern Maine attended this leadership conference. Thirty out of 36 Rotary Clubs sponsored 75 high school sophomores in Rotary District 7780.

RYLA 1994 Chair, Dan Hart, Bethel Rotary Club member, coordinated the three-day leadership conference in cooperation with conference committee members: Al Barth and Marilyn Wyman of the Bethel Club, Jane deFrees and Shirley Powell of the Rumford Club, Steve Merrill of the Oxford Hills Club, Betsy Moriarty of the Bridgton/Lakes Region Club and RYLA 1993 participant Lori Davis, Telstar Regional High School senior.

Leadership activities/ programs consisted of: ropes/obstacle stations course by Jeff Parsons; visual comedian Randy Judkins; leadership panel, including Bethel Town Manager Madeleine Henley and Sunday River Ski Resort personnel director Jeff Kelcourse; making of a state law/state government, Rep. Al Barth; leadership qualities presentation by Lewiston Mayor John Jenkins; prejudice and diversity-making, a plan in school and community by Don Coverdale; career planning and goals as a leadership by Dan Hart; and regional networking/public speaking, Jane deFrees-Rumford Rotarian.

Telstar High School sophomores attending the conference were Jessica Coolidge, Joel Dakin, Ian Richardson and Dan Wigley.

Bethel Rotarians assisting as small group facilitators, video taping, coordination of equipment and chaperone duties were: Bill Clough, John Caron, Ron Deegan, Scott Dennis, Dick Fain, John Head, Nancy Harrison, Jeff Parsons, Steve Wight and Marilyn Wyman.

Special events included a visit, tour and swim of the Summit Hotel, dance/karaoke by Pete Robertson, and RYLA participant/ parent barbecue on the Bing-ham grounds at Gould.

Rotary International provides the Rotary Youth Leadership Awards Conference in all states/ regions as well as internationally. Next year's RYLA conference site is yet to be announced. Yet, this year's RYLA 1994 Conference at Gould Academy received exceptional praise from students, parents and Rotarians who will promote RYLA conference participation next year.

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

We hope you will join us this weekend for the Fourth of July Festival and Celebration of the Arts. It is sure to be a great event for the entire family. Many thanks to the sponsors, supporters and committee members for making this event possible. A complete list of these folks will be in the Bethel Citizen next week. Commemorative posters for the event, designed by Brigid Gallagher of South Woodstock will be available this weekend for sale. Duck race chances will also be available. You could win one of the many great prizes including season passes to Ski Mt. Abram and Sunday river. Tickets to win beautiful watercolor paintings by Helen Morton and Judy Gordon (framed by the Bethel Frame Shop) will also be available for $1 or 6 for $5.

All members and friends are welcomed to come to July's Business After Hours to be held at L'Auberge Country Inn on Monday, July 11 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Many thanks to the panelists from the banking and lending community who were so free to give their expert advice at the Chamber's Financing Workshop last week. Anyone who missed it may contact the office to receive a packet of information.

Golf tip of the week --

Watch the ball, but keep the chin high enough so the upper body can rotate easily under it. If, when looking at the ball, you can raise your eyes without moving your head so that you can see the horizon in front of you, then your head position is just right. To have your chin on your chest would restrict a smooth rhythmic turn of the shoulders resulting in a choppy swing.

The golf tip of the week is provided by the staff of the Bethel Inn and Country Club.

In Loving Memory of

Bob Lowe

Passed away June 28, 1990

A loving face from us is gone, a voice we loved is still. A place made vacant in our hearts which never can be filled. Lies one we loved so dearly in his silent lonely grave. Friends may think he is forgotten that the wound is surely healed. But they little know the sorrow, that lies in our hearts concealed. Days of sorrow still come to us, tears in silence often flow. Memories keep us ever near you, though you died four years ago. You'll never be forgotten by your loved ones.

Sadly missed and loved by wife, children and grandchildren

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

The doctrine of God's Grace is one of the most basic and important doctrines of the Christian faith.

The Apostle Paul in writing to the Christians in ancient Ephesus said, (Eph. 2:8, 9) "For by grace you are saved through faith; and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of God -- not of works lest any man should boast."

The Christian definition of Grace is "unmerited favor". The receiving of something one doesn't deserve. "Not of works" emphasizes this fact because one earns something it is a "wage" and not a "gift."

The word "saved," a very common word found in the New Testament. It means to be saved from the eternal condemnation of sin which is eternal death.

Another verse in the New Testament reads: "The wages of sin is death but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." (Rom. 6:23)

Thus, from these two verses of the New Testament we find that being "saved," or going to heaven, when we die, is not by something we can do or have done, but purely by the Grace of God and Grace alone, thus as plainly stated, "eternal life," or getting to heaven, is a Gift of God. It is therefore purely by Grace, something not earned by good works as so many seem to erroneously assume.

A gift has to be paid for, of course, by the giver. Thus we read in John 3:16 "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

Thus, the Christian faith teaches us that Christ paid the price for our eternal condemnation, the penalty of our sins, when He died upon the Cross. Thus, making it possible for a holy, just and righteous God to forgive our sins and by "Grace" give those who will receive it the "gift of eternal life." Have you received this gift? Remember it is not something we can do but for something Christ has done. "For By Grace Are Ye Saved."

Rev. Roland M. Lord,
Assistant Pastor
Bryant Pond Baptist Church

Tips from the

Bethel Conservation Commission

Pick up a pamphlet from the counter of the Bethel Town Office on: "Household Hazardous Waste-What You Should And Shouldn't Do."

This colorful and informative pamphlet by the Water Environment Federation gives easy-to-read advice about the many household products that can end up contaminating our groundwater, streams, and rivers if we do not take care in their use and disposal.

The pamphlet folds out into a handy "how-to dispose" chart suitable for placing on the refrigerator door, kitchen bulletin board, or other prominent household location.

Equally important is its common-sense advice on how to reduce the amount of materials needing to be disposed of.
